DISCUSSION GUIDE

PLOT

Two relative strangers try to turn a one night stand into a marriage in this romantic comedy. Alex Whitman is a successful designer from New York City who is sent to Las Vegas to supervise the construction of a nightclub that his firm has been hired to build. Alex is a straight-laced type who, while enjoying a night on the town, meets Isabel Fuentes, a free-spirited Mexican-American photographer. Alex and Isabel are overtaken by lust at first sight and end up spending the night together; They spend one night together, and practice safe sex, but clearly not safe enough. When they do meet again, it's because Isabel has some news for Alex: she's pregnant with his child. That's when things get interesting. Alex and Isabel decide that they should do the right thing and quickly get married with an Elvis impersonator serving as witness.

After Isabel meets Alex's mom, and Alex is confronted by Isabel's father, both start to wonder if "doing the right thing" was just that, especially as Alex tries to balance his career in New York with Isabel's desire to continue working in Nevada. A clash of customs and ideas develops in their families and in their relationship because of their different cultural and national backgrounds.
